> - HTML
> - CSS
> - ASP
> - Javascript
> - Database
> - Validation Facility

Introduction

In our normal life,we face different types of crimes.The most common crimes are hijacking,rape,theft,murder & many other physical/mental harrashment.As a victim,we want to punish the criminal.But we don't have this right to punish any person directly,we have to go through a legal process.So,we go to the Police Station to complain against the criminal.In this case,the Police officer offers us to write a FIR(First Information Report).It is a legal process but it is time consuming & sometime difficult for the victim to find the nearest Police station.For reducing time & this kind of difficulty this site(Online FIR System) will help us.It is very easy for the users to use & make a FIR in anywhere in our country very quickly.

Flow Chart:

Implementation Tool:

HTML: For creating a website, HTML is a must.HTML is used for each individual static page designing.

CSS: CSS means Cascading Style Sheet.CSS is used for making the exterior design of website smooth and nice and colorful.Some features of CSS is giving margin,padding,background,font style,transition,hovering etc. Styling and content designing are made with CSS.

ASP: In my website I use ASP.net to do the back-end code of this site.Like database connection,establish security of my site etc.

Javascript: Alert making like-password condition, name limitation, email validation are made with Javascript.

Database: Database is a storing element.It is used to save the information of the user like username,email,password,contact number etc.Without database website is nothing,it's just like a building without giving foundation.So,the database is necessary because data is the most valuable resource.

Session: When we want to save some work and stay in the same page when we are jumping one webpage to other like opening a new tab, session can be used. Session must be destroyed when the user doesn't needed.

Cookie: Cookie and session has close relation enough. But cookie can be said permanent memory as with browser deletion it doesn't delete if destruction command is not provided.
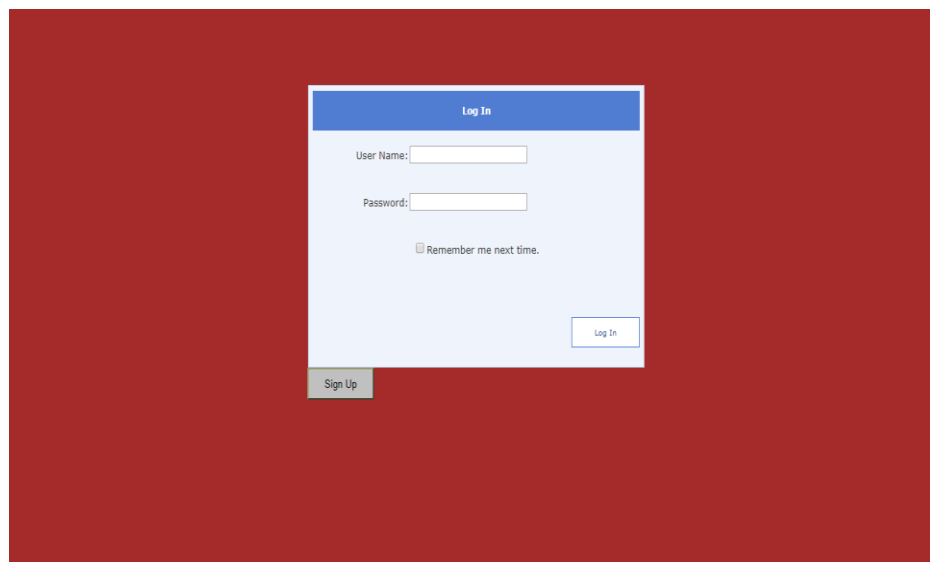

Azax: Azax will be used here for searching activities.For finding nearest Police station,it is used.

Language:

 C# & Java script are used in my site because I use ASP.net. Most of the work are done by C# like database connection etc, Java script is used only for validation purpose.

History: In this page,the glorious history of the Police is described shortly.By this user can know the history of the Police in several periods of time.

Chronology

Bangladesh Police is the core law enforcement agency of Bangladesh. It is administered under the Ministry of Home Affairs of the Government of Bangladesh. It plays the prime and pivotal role in maintaining law and order of the state. Though police is primarily concerned with maintaining law and order assuring security of public life and property.

In Bangladesh, the formal and organized policing with varieties of activities as of today has come to this stage through lots of evolutions and developments across the long time.

Ancient Period

History unfolds the fact that police is as old as the civilization. Towards the Middle of the first century B.C. police emerged as a special institution in ancient Rome in the regime of Augustus.Manushanghita, the hieroglyphics of Emperor Ashoka, and the stories of renowned travelers are the main sources of our history. These sources also give clues to compose the fragmented history of Bangladesh Police. In Orthoshastra by Koutilla, nine types of spies are mentioned. During that period policing was confined to the efforts of collecting intelligence in order to curb anti-government activities and to maintain law and order in the society. The duties of undercover spies were extended such a way that they used to conduct surveillance over the activities of ministers, civil and military officials as well. In the process, all tangible means of temptations and instigations were deployed. Information about investigating techniques and investigating authorities may be found in Orthoshastra. The procedures of punishing the accused are also found in this book. Hence, it may be assumed that there happened to be a kind of police under the local autonomous system in the rural and urban areas.

Pakistan Period

After the partition of the Sub-continent in 1947, police force in Bangladesh was first named as East Bengal Police and then as East Pakistan Police and it continued to function as provincial police force in the same lines as it was during the British rule.

However, the police force of Pakistan continued the system of British period. Police were compelled to carry out unpopular orders. The act of shooting on the participants of language movement demonstration in 1952 was a glaring example of colonial rule and suppression.
